Co-Founders

Mala S & Leena Munot

the co-founders are passionate about all things Indian, all things innovative and earth friendly. Whether it is creating hand-crafted utility products for corporates, using Indian folk art forms like warli, phulkari, madhubani and kalamkari or whether it is floating a whole range of Indian souvenirs, and incorporating popular landmarks of the country in the form of ink sketches and watercolour images; this duo makes no compromises when it comes to offering the very best of India, Innovation and Earth friendliness in all they do.

They believe corporate gifting has come a long way in India and has great scope to touch more lives in the coming decades. Competition is replaced by collaboration in their business vocabulary and they aggressively forge win-win relationships with their suppliers, channel partners and are a name to reckon with in the corporate gifting industry.

Their unquenchable thirst for innovation leads them to the smallest towns and villages of India where they find dying traditions of old folk art and skill, hone it to suit the likes of their clients and introduce these on their gift hamper designs with engaging stories about the skill and the importance of why these need to be revived.

There is more than meets the eye when you engage in a conversation with the duo – their passion, dedication and warmth in dealing with all their clients, turns a client into a friend very soon. Their meetings shift from being just about business to a longer chat over chai. After all, gifting is all about making people feel special.
