About

FitMax was born out of a simple observation: too many lifters were training blind. They would walk into the gym day after day, lifting weights without truly understanding their strength potential or how to optimize their training loads.

We saw athletes attempting dangerous max lifts without proper preparation, beginners struggling to find the right starting weights, and experienced lifters plateauing because they couldn't accurately track their progress. The solution was clear—we needed to make advanced strength calculation accessible to everyone.
